How Indiana Addresses Its Health Care Workforce Challenges

Indiana, like many states, is experiencing a health care workforce shortage exacerbated by an aging population, an increase in chronic disease, and older, rurally areas. Addressing workforce challenges requires states to build new partnerships and take a cross-agency approach to solve this problem. This new NASHP case study examines how Indiana uses innovative tools and resources to expand and train its health care workforce.

New NASHP Tool Identifies Key Quality Measures for CYSHCN

Quality measurement is a critical component of state health policy, and Indiana has been working to improve its system of care for children and youth with special health care needs (CYSHCN). While quality measurement by CYSHCN has traditionally focused on outcomes, a new NASHP compendium of data and quality measures provides an easy-to-use reference tool for state officials working to improve their CYSHCN programs. As a best new blog, explores the measures compendium aligns with the National Standards for Systems of Care for Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs.

Special Report: 2018 Elections and State Health Policy - Expect More Innovation

Each month, NASHP’s State Resource Center highlights the health care innovations and initiatives that newly-elected governors prioritized in their agendas and may become policy in 2019. Political changes in state governments, learning, leading and implementing innovative solutions throughout state governments, learning, leading and implementing innovative solutions that can impact health policy challenges.

NASHP Creates Confidential State Employee Job Bank

Recruiting governors and state leaders have come with a new tool to help identify and recruiting candidates for top policy and management positions. If you are interested in advertising your resource to NASHP’s confidential job bank, please email it and your desired position to search@nashp.org. All resources will not be put TRANSITION on the resource list without sharing with you first.

What’s Up: Age-Based Resources for Parents

This month, NASHP features a resource for families and providers. If you have a resource to request be featured, please email it and your desired job title to search@nashp.org.

NASHP News | November 13, 2018

NASHP.org | 307.674.4524 | info@nashp.org

Healthy Child Development

Three. Check out NASHP’s healthy child development.

National Academy for State Health Policy

The National Academy for State Health Policy is a nonpartisan forum of policymakers and others working to improve the health and well-being of all Americans. The Academy serves as a resource to state governments, learning, leading and implementing innovative solutions to health policy challenges.