New Resources Showcases State-variants. Children’s and Adolescent Services
NASHP has added new resources to the National Standards for Children’s Health Care Services and Youth with Special Health Care Needs Toolkit.
These resources were developed to help states design, strengthen, and enhance initiatives that improve the lives of people with serious illness by promoting access to palliative care in homes, communities, and hospitals. States -- as regulators, payers, and innovators of health care – can use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts.

New Tools Help States Find Potential Rx Cost Savings
State Medicaid programs can help contain drug costs and prevent prescribing in their states to identify opportunities to reduce drug costs for state agencies. NASHP is convening members of the Maternal and Child Health Bureau of the Health Resources and Services Administration, as part of the Maternal and Child Health Policy Innovation Project.

New Resources Added to the National Standards for CYSHCN Toolkit
NASHP has added new resources to the National Standards for Children’s Health Care Services and Youth with Special Health Care Needs Toolkit. These new resources were developed to help states design, strengthen, and enhance initiatives that improve the lives of people with serious illness by promoting access to palliative care in homes, communities, and hospitals. States -- as regulators, payers, and innovators of health care – can use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts and stakeholder to use the standards in quality measurement efforts.

New Resources Highlight How States Can Improve Palliative Care Access and Quality
NASHP has added new resources to the National Standards for Children’s Health Care Services and Youth with Special Health Care Needs Toolkit.

New Tools Help States Find Potential Rx Cost Savings
State Medicaid programs can help contain drug costs and prevent prescribing in their states to identify opportunities to reduce drug costs for state agencies. NASHP is convening members of the Maternal and Child Health Bureau of the Health Resources and Services Administration, as part of the Maternal and Child Health Policy Innovation Project.

NASHP's annual conference provides a unique forum to explore emerging issues and cutting-edge work, and discuss best policies. NASHP's annual conference provides a unique forum to explore emerging issues and cutting-edge work, and discuss best policies. NASHP's annual conference provides a unique forum to explore emerging issues and cutting-edge work, and discuss best policies. NASHP's annual conference provides a unique forum to explore emerging issues and cutting-edge work, and discuss best policies. NASHP's annual conference provides a unique forum to explore emerging issues and cutting-edge work, and discuss best policies.